SPN22	As you may know, a subsidy is a benefit given by the government to groups or individuals, usually in the form of a cash payment or tax reduction. Many city and state governments offer subsidies to attract businesses to the area and incentivize building new facilities that will create jobs. Some believe subsidies from state and local governments are critical to economic development because they bring jobs and spending to local communities. Others believe subsidies from state and local governments are socially irresponsible because they take funds away from local services such as schools, police and emergency services. Which of the following comes closest to your opinion, even if neither is exactly correct?
